QUOTABLES

Lauren Coughlin on coming back from 3-down and the change of tide with her par putt on No. 8

“Yeah, I mean, I kind of got a little bit unlucky with the plugged lie, but I was just trying to get myself a putt at it. Been putting really well all week, so I just knew I just needed to get a putt. As soon as I hit it I kind of knew I hit a pretty good putt. Obviously anything can happen in match play, and so when she missed I think that just kind of -- the momentum definitely shifted a little bit.”

Lauren Coughlin on her emotions through the last six holes of her semifinal match

“Yeah, again, I just felt like I was playing really well all day today. Ariya just didn't seem to make very many mistakes there to start. She made a lot of really good putts for par and hit it really close on the first hole. I just kind of hung in there. This course is super tough and you kind of have to miss in a lot of the really good places. If not, you can have some really difficult chips, up and downs. I feel like my caddie and I have done a really good job managing that, especially coming down the stretch the last few holes. I've been lucky that 17 has been a really good number for me all week. I'm not fighting between clubs, because it's a really small green. And, yeah, I think I've just started to get into a groove and just get really focused there towards the end. I've just gotten everything seemed to go my way there at the end.”

Madelene Sagstrom on how much she enjoys match play

“I mean, you're never out of it. That's the thing. I think there is so much fun because even though this golf course is so difficult -- you can hit a bad golf shot -- like I have to hole on 6. Like I was out and I hit this shot and I'm like, what just happened? But you're never out of a hole or out of a match. I think that's the charm of it. Like you can just keep going and keep going.”

Madelene Sagstrom on finishing her quarterfinal match this morning and heading into the semifinal match

“We were talking about it last night because I had to sit and wait for them to finish their marathon of a playoff. I was like, do I want to be in their shoes or do I want to be in my shoes. You never know. This morning I definitely felt like I was awake. I had already warmed up. I was ready to go out again, so I probably think it was a little bit of an advantage. I felt the greens a little bit, so it was good.”
