Extended forecast – The weekend and into next week will feature similar weather conditions. A drier pattern moves in with low chances of afternoon pop-up thunderstorms each day. A sea breeze pattern is expected with the winds. Winds will begin light each morning and then southerly winds around 10mph are expected in the afternoon with most wind gusts near 20mph and a few 25mph possible each day. Warmer weather is expected with high temperatures increasing into the mid 80s by the end of the weekend. Each morning Thursday-Sunday, light fog is possible in the morning.
